Enforcement and Compliance Announcement

Requests for administrative reviews of orders, findings, or suspended investigations with anniversary dates in October are not tolled

On October 2, 2013, the Department of Commerce ("Department") published Antidumping or Countervailing Duty Order, Finding, or Suspended Investigation; Opportunity to Request Administrative Review (78 FR 60847) ("Opportunity Notice") in the Federal Register. In the Opportunity Notice, parties were notified that they have until not later than the last day of October 2013, to request administrative reviews of orders, findings, or suspended investigations with anniversary dates in October. As a result of the Federal government closure from October 1 through October 16, the Department is tolling all deadlines for ongoing proceedings. See October 18, 2013, Memorandum: Deadlines Affected by the Shutdown of the Federal Government (cite website).

However, this tolling decision does not apply to the October 31, 2013, deadline to request administrative reviews. Therefore, requests for administrative review of the orders, findings, or suspended investigations with an October anniversary month listed in the Opportunity Notice are due by October 31, 2013.
